PRESIDENT NOT TO BE CALLED TO TALK IN MITCHELL TRIAL

No Authority Is Found To Force Executive To Be a Witness

DAVIS' STATUS YET DOUBTFUL

Secretary Of War May Be Asked To Give Testimony

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—Counsel in the court-martial proceedings against Colonel William Mitchell were taking advantage of an adjournment today over the week end to prepare for the next state of their legal tussle.

This will be the actual trial of the officer on the charges of conduct violating good order and discipline. A stage of the proceedings barely reached out the three days taken up by efforts of the defense to halt the trial when the court took an early adjournment yesterday until Monday to permit preparations for the offering of evidence.

Colonel Mitchell and his counsel, meanwhile, are going to decide whether they will ask the court that he be confronted there by his accusers, meaning either President Coolidge, Secretary of War Dwight Davis or both.

If Representative Reid, of Illinois, the defendant's civilian counsel, does decide to ask the court to call President Coolidge, there was no doubt today that the move would come to naught.

Local military authorities have definitely decided, it was said, that the court-martial has no authority by which it may summon the president as a witness. Precedents for such an opinion, it was added, were found in decisions of the United States supreme court.

A request for the summons of Secretary Davis however, would permit the question to be decided there.

Later the hat was found where the man apparently had dropped it in his flight.

Health officials stated that there were not many cases of the disease in Morgan County and health authorities of all of the Valley counties now are devoting much attention to an attempt to stamp out the disease in its early stages. Death to the victim in Lawrence county was said to have occurred in eight hours after the child became ill.

NOBLESVILLE, Ind., Oct. 31—Madge Oberholtzer's dying declaration was admitted in evidence today at the trial of D. C. Stephenson, Earl Klenck and Earl Gentry, in connection with her death, after Judge Will Sparks had ruled out seven sections of the document.

The defense objections, which covered virtually the entire text of the statement except that part in which she told of taking poison, were sustained as to these seven sections, the longest containing three sentences and the shortest only a brief clause.

The court held in most of the instances where deletions were made that they were the conclusion of the witness and were incompetent.

Citizen Takes a Novel Means To Protect Front Lawn

Friends of Mayor James A. Nease of Decatur, today were good naturedly teasing him as a result of the novel method adopted by a citizen to protect the front lawn of a Decatur home against the visits of a mule which occasionally displays a disposition to roam from its own stable.

The city officials had received a complaint from the citizen several days ago regarding the mule having gotten into the citizen's yard. It appears the mule this morning paid a return call and the citizen was indignant.

The citizen obtained a halter and tied it around the mule's neck and then called the Western Union Telegraph office, obtained a messenger from there, and dispatched the mule halter and all, to the jewelry store operated by the executive.

SOUTH PREPARES TO RESIST INVASION OF A REAL COLD WAVE

Snow Ploughs Brought Forth In Several Southern States

FOOTBALL FIELDS SNOW COVERED

Abatement of the Cold Weather Is Due By Monday

(Associated Press)

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 31—Dixie continued today to repel another invader from the north—King Winter—who brought up re-inforcements during the night in the shape of snow, his deadliest ally, so far as the south is concerned.

The defenders made up of every man, woman and child in the usually balmy regions were employing every weapon available to stand their ground against the enemy.

Furnaces, overcoats, open fires, blankets, hot water bottles and red flannels were employed to off-set the rigors of the uneven warfare.

South Alabama, the Mississippi coast, extreme northwest Florida were at grips with honest-to-goodness cold weather, while northerly gales and overcast skies were forecast for the Atlantic coast, from Sandy Hook to Cape Hatteras.

The invader had the odds last night at Little Rock and Memphis, where at eight o'clock official thermometer readings placed the temperature 30 to 32 degrees respectively.

Colonel J. Pluvius was to attack in Virginia, North and South Carolina Georgia, Florida and East Texas today.

Virginia was the principal battleground throughout the first part of the week, while skirmishes were being fought in Tennessee, Kentucky, and Arkansas, where the snow reserves had been brought up and were being used with telling effects.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—October snows and freezes are being experienced by a large portion of the Atlantic seaboard, following similar conditions in the mid south.

Football fields as far south as Tennessee were snow covered today. Early snow records were broken in Connecticut and heavier snowfalls were reported in Washington and Virginia.

An inch and a half in New Haven was the heaviest there in years. Washington and Virginia had a two inch snow fall, the earliest since 1870. Four inches of snow at Charlottesville, Va., postponed a football game between the University of Virginia and Randolph-Macon.

A two inch snow broke the New York early snow record yesterday. In some parts of Pennsylvania sleighs were brought out. Salvaging of the wrecked submarine S-61 off Block Island, R. I. had to be suspended because of high seas and the blinding flakes.

Warmer weather is predicted for tomorrow. An abatement of low temperature already is working its way east.

SATURDAY NEWS LETTER

News Bits Gathered From The Four Corners Of The Earth By The Associated Press

(Associated Press)

LONDON, Oct. 31.—Viewing with patriotic alarm disclosures that the ancient, honorable and weighty Christmas puddings of old Eng'nd are not British at all, but composed of about 85 per cent of American and Near Eastern fruits and spices, the Australian fruit growers have opened a campaign to give the English housewife a real British product this Yuletide.

It appears that about the only thing the British can point to with pride as an empire product when the traditional Christmas dessert is served is the delicate blue alcoholic flame of burning brandy but the Australians wish to go much further toward making the national delicacy an all-British affair.

They have girded themselves for an advertising battle against California and Mediterranean products and in full page layouts in the newspapers are singing the praises of imperial raisins, spices and other ingredients, printing recipes telling how to prepare and serve rich, tasty concoctions that will please the most patriotic palates.

The Australian-dried fruit board believes the Australian fruit can compete successfully with California and the Levant in prices, quality and quantity of its products.

Grandmothers with boyish bobs, cigarettes and girlish skirts are among the women rushing to a new physical culture club in which middle-aged and older ladies are promised better figures, health and the grace of ancient Greece.

With a lecturer from the school of medicine for women to supervise the old ladies in their exercises and keep them from over-training, it is maintained they can escape from shriveling or swelling of the figure, stiffness and the lack of alertness which in the olden days was accepted as the inevitable accompaniment of old age.

The classes and exercises have been made joyous affairs, with the beginners busy drilling and the advanced pupils engaged in the rhythmic dancing and fencing. Later Badminton, swimming and hockey will be added to the curriculum.

Mrs. Catherine Elephant appeared in a London divorce court recently and told Mr. Justice Bateson that she had never liked the name of Elephant and that at the time of her marriage she had asked her husband to take the name of Elefant. He agreed to this, she said, and for several years they lived together happily. Eventually, however, the disposition of Mr. Elephant toward his spouse underwent a change, the petitioner continued, and one day her husband tore all the papers bearing the name of Elefant and announced that thereafter they were Mr. and Mrs. Elephant. Thereupon she went to court to seek a separation, which the court granted.

Baroness Burton, wife of Colonel J. F. B. Baillie of Ditchford, and member of an old Highland family, has come forward to take exception to the jibes recently cast by Mr. Lloyd George upon rich strangers who hire large tracts of land in Scotland for pleasure instead of tilling the land and who, Mr. Lloyd George said, couldn't stand wearing kilts in December without central heating. The former premier made these remarks in the course of a recent speech in the Highlands in support of his new liberal land project.

Baroness Burton asserts that a very large proportion of the heads of the real old Highland clans still remain on the lands of their forefathers. "Owing to the legislation of Mr. Lloyd George," she continued, "the only time of the year they can afford to live in their homes is in the winter. Some unfortunate highland chiefs, owing to the excessive taxation, introduced by Mr. Lloyd George have been unable to retain their homes."

"We Highlanders do not need a Welshman to come and teach us about our fellow countrymen."

The creation of a French expeditionary force, distinct from the home army, is the feature of an army reform scheme which ultimately will involve a reduction of the period of military service, which Premier Poincaré is preparing.

The war in Morocco has shown the desirability of having such an expeditionary force to go abroad on short notice. It would be composed of professional soldiers and North African troops, in view of the fact that it is more particularly intended for colonial service. The home army would be a conscript force, composed exclusively of French white troops and would not be required to serve overseas except under the most unusual circumstances.

White the New York flapper defies the Autumn frost in rolled stockings and skirts that fail to cover the knees, the smart Parisienne is letting down her skirts, centimeter by centimeter as the winds become more chilly. Skirt hems do not yet cover calves on the boulevards, but the models now on display in the smart dressmaking establishments that set women's fashions for the world now display slightly longer skirts than they did in August.

The "little season" models, "which means those on display now, are fore cast of what may be expected in the mode of next summer. Swarms of New York buyers are in Paris choosing clothes for the winter resort trade in America, and nearly all the models they are buying have longer skirts than those now being worn in the United States.

The well-dressed Parisienne today wears her skirts from four to six inches below the knee, depending on her height. When she is seated there is a short drapery of skirt over the knees, and when she walks the pleats and godets make her knees a mere surmise.

If skirts continued their downward trend, and one leading designer prophesies that, eventually, they will cover the feet, knees may again become the vague rumors they were in Victorian days.

A donkey whose owner christened him "Herriot," is the central figure of a trial at Blois, where the owner has been summoned before a local court on the charge of defamation.

The peasant owner pleads that he meant no harm, that his donkey is a good beast and a willing worker and that he and his four-legged friend have the greatest respect for the former premier and present president of the chamber of deputies. But the Blois authorities, loyal radical-socialists for the most part, see in this christening a facetious dig at the leader of their party.

All the excitement over the case naturally is causing great glee in conservative camps. One man, critic has even gone so far as to express the opinion that "giving the name of the negotiator of the London agreements of 1924 to an inoffensive quadruped certainly entitles the donkey to sue his master for libel.

A jazzless paradise for lovers who prefer to whisper their endearments over a cup of coffee or a glass of wine without the accompaniment of crashing drums or blaring horns has been tried out by one suburban cafe proprietor with great success.

Good business came as soon as he posted a sign which represented a couple being served by the proprietor himself and declared that those tired of jazz would find warm welcome and welcome quiet there.

The "good old-fashioned" songs and dances of a generation ago seem to appeal to the patrons of this cafe most of all.

Roasting-ears stewed in wine, and stewed with their husks and silks intact, was the amazing dish served in a high class Parisian restaurant recently to American patrons who asked for corn on the cob. The Americans calmly stripped off the husks and silk and ate the corn without a word. They are still wondering whether the French cook played a practical joke on them or whether he was himself the victim of some waggish American patron who had devised this recipe for cooking corn.

The opening of the fall hunting season found President Von Hindenburg at his hunting lodge at Werbellin, in the province of Brandenburg, 40 miles north of Berlin which was first placed at the disposal of the chief executive during the Elbert regime. The president is an excellent shot, and always brings down at least one deer a week.

His next door neighbor is the socialist premier of Prussia, Otto Braun, who occupies a hunting lodge owned by the Prussian state.

Berlin wags facetiously claim that the foreign office always sends a diplomatic note by courier to the deer in advance of President von Hindenburg's and Premier Braun's departure for Werbellin, so that the heads of the nation and the largest of the federated states may not be kept waiting for the deer to appear within range of their guns.

German women, craving to be as slender as the fashionable American woman, are trying every conceivable method including some dangerous remedies, to get thin and stay thin, says Dr. Hermann Kerschenscheider, professor of internal medicine at the University of Munich.

While deploring the inroads made by American movies and magazines on German "kultur," Dr. Kerschenscheider says that the fashion of being slender is one of the greatest blessings that has come to Germany from the United States since the war. "Physicians are being besought by corpulent women who desire to get thin," he says, "also by normal women who desire to get thinner and by other women who have endangered their health by quack or harmful reducing remedies."

The resumption of pre-war habits of eating and drinking, following the lean years of the war, he said, have led to unhealthful corpulency among Germans and physicians are warning women to diet to be stylish. The spread of American fashions and customs in German, Dr. Kerschenscheider asserts, is proof that the United States will be the real victor in the war and that France is losing ground.

Astronomy is a subject of holding the attention of even the most hardened convict, Countess Renate von Dohnau, chairman of the society of star-lovers, has found. Whenever she lectures in prisons the halls are crowded with convicts who listen with profound attention and in perfect quiet, whereas lectures on other subjects frequently are interrupted by "boos" and other derisive ejaculations from audiegees which only half fill the halls. "There is something wonderful after all about the stars," Countess von Dohnau observed. "Even jailbirds fall under their spell."

A second season of plays in the English language has been started in Berlin. Encouraged by the success of last year's experiments, the "English theater" an aggregation composed mostly of German actors who know English, has started the Autumn season with Alfred Sutor's comedy, "The Laughing Lady," under the stage direction of Dr. Philip Manning.

The audiences at these performances is made up largely of members of the English seminary or the University of Berlin and of men and women interested in foreign affairs and trade.

On the whole, the Berlin press receives the "English theater's" productions with warm praise. The critic of the Berliner Zeitung, for instance, asks: "In what other city of Europe could native actors and actresses to perform a foreign play with such perfect retention of the foreign peculiarities."

Johanna Gadske, for 23 years a prima donna at the Metropolitan Opera in New York, starring principally in Wagnerian roles, has returned to the concert stage this autumn in Berlin, the scene of her first triumphs. She has not appeared in public since the world war.

Critics found that her voice retains much of the brilliancy for which she was famous during her Metropolitan engagements. Her first evening consisted of an exclusively Wagnerian program in the course of which she sang "Elsa's Dream" from "Lohengrin," "Dich Teuremalle," from Tannhauser and various selections from "Tristan and Isolde." The Berlin symphony orchestra varied the program by playing the preludes to "Lohengrin" and "Die Meistersinger." Her second program was devoted entirely to German songs.

The crinolines of the Victorian age with their swishing designed to attract men, were just as bad as the short, tight skirts of today, Miss Emily M. Faithfull, for many years principal of the Cheltenham college for women, told the church congress at Eastbourne recently. Miss Faithfull made the point that what the church needed was some sort of a crusade to make people realize the anti-social character of selfishness in dress and various other indulgences.

She said it was very irritating to the young to be told continually that smoking was a crime or at best was vulgar and it had been forgotten by most people that dress in every age had been ridiculous and that paint and powder were by no means new. Smoking, powder, paint and modern dresses she went on, were an entirely different footing in the catalogue of human failings from drinking, swearing and going into debt because of high living. The church she said must appeal to young women in a new way and then they would respond.

"Bobbed Hair"

A DAZZLING MYSTERY STORY BY TWENTY FAMOUS AUTHORS

Copyright 1924-25, P. F. Collier & Son Co. and G. P. Putnam's Sons
"BOBBED HAIR" with Marie Prevost is a pictorialization of this story by Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

SYNOPSIS

It is within two hours of midnight, by which time Connemara Moore must let it be known whether she will marry Bingham Carrington or Saltonstall Cabot Adams. Bobbed hair will mean one, long tresses the other. But Connie has stolen out of Aunt Celina's house, halted a passing car and notified the startled driver, "I think I'll go with you." The girl is dressed as a nun. Within the house is excitement, for failure to "announce" by midnight means to be disinherited by auntie.

"How might you have known?" she asked, for she really did not care much about silence. "I had been told," he explained, "that it was not far from New York."

CHAPTER III

By Louis Bromfield

It was a night filled with a sense of the imminent, one of those nights when the very air, for all its softness and the frail, trailing scent of syringas, was vibrant with the unexpected, the remote, possibly even the tragic. Even to Lacy, a man sophisticated, worldly, experienced as neither the boisterous Bing or the intellectual Adams was experienced, understood this. There was in him nothing of the primitive which colored the rude gestures and the passion of the Southerner, nor anything cold, fishlike, of the intellectual penetration which distinguished the Bostonian. He was, in short, a man who lived by his senses, without reflection, without worrying very profoundly about the reasons or the motives of any action. He took what came his way.

Now as he sat at the wheel of the purring Isotta-Franchini, with a perfumed and renegade nun by his side, his mind slowly turned over adventures of the past. One by one he recounted his conquests, but at least the major ones—those which might have been underlined in red. . . .

Blanca, the Argentine dancer; place, London; time, in full season; Frau Sembacher; place, the Black Forest; time, late spring, harebells and columbines flowering among the black trunks of the trees, an elderly husband in the background taking the cure celebrated far and wide for its purgative qualities. The Honorable Mary Wallop, second daughter of Lord Squint, D. C. F., K. Y. B., a tall pale girl with gold hair, slightly marred by the protruding teeth that were the mark of her direct descent from Oswald Scuncliffe, first baron who came over with William the Conqueror; time, late autumn; place, Vallombrosa; falling leaves strewn the brook, etc., etc. Yvonne (what was her other name?), to whose room he had climbed from balcony to balcony of a gaudy Venetian palace; time—he couldn't quite remember—probably in season. Nobody was in Venice at any other time of the year.

He had a head for detail, Mr. David Lacy. He began already to construct in his imagination the probable course of this present adventure. A nun, perfumed! This adventure resembled one of Casanova's. Yes, he could see already that it must be underlined in red.

"Purr-r-r-r," ran the motor, singing along beautifully. On either side of the road the marsh grass lay spangled with fireflies. The scent of syringas still clung to his companion, but with it there mingled another scent, more subtle, yet even more penetrating. What was it? Ah, mimosa, to be sure! The nun used mimosa perfume. Clever of her. None of these TNT perfumes called "Where are you going, Sister?" But it somehow sounded rowdy. And I don't feel rowdy. You see, I don't know much about nuns. Don't you all have Latin names? Like Sister Benedictine, or something like that?"

"Yes, something like that," she agreed, smiling. Then she added as an afterthought: "They call me Con Amore."

"Well, then, Sister Con Amore," he began, and lapsed at once into another silence. Out of his jumble of thoughts, several questions kept rising to the surface and lingering there unspoken. Wasn't Con Amore Italian, anyway? And why had he thought he wanted to go to Paris? And why—above all why—should the same slim and lovely person put on not only the white dismissive cloth of the Dominican nun, but also a perfume? It was a wicked and worldly perfume—a beckoning perfume.

"I hope you're not going to ask me any questions," she put in gently. "It is so pleasant to ride along in silence along the road that leads away from Trouble."

"I am glad," he said, "if that's what we are doing. To think that I drove past Trouble and never saw it in the darkness. I suppose I might have known?"

12 Years Ago TODAYFrom The Daily of October 31, 1913

Barnum and Bailey's circus was here today and a large crowd from neighboring communities was present in the Twin Cities.

Schools of the cities are closed today on account of the circus.

Miss Irwine, of Athens, will arrive Saturday to be the guest of Mrs. J. W. Troy.

Mrs. O. Kyle left Thursday to visit her son in Montgomery.

Miss Mary Williams is suffering an attack of grippe.

Mrs. R. O. Darwin has returned to Trinity, after having been the guest of friends here.

Go to church Sunday. Make the day worthwhile.

The right of free speech and free criticism doesn't seem to extend to the army.

"The Gorilla" is said to have some of the most laughable situations of any play in a decade. Monkey-shines, we presume.

The ghosts walk tonight. It's Hallowe'en, and be reminded once more to get all of the porch furniture in the house for the evening.

Jesse L. Lasky's next picture probably will be "Cry and you cry alone." Hi-jackers took $10,000 worth of the movie magnates pre-war booze away from him.

There is one thing about the conference vote on unification, there remained little doubt how the delegates felt toward the plan.

If the rains continue to drench football teams, the universities might switch to water polo for inter-school athletic competition.

Henry Ford has thoroughly convinced the power company of the desirability of Muscle Shoals. Give Henry credit for that!

There may be some connection in the Florida boom and the fact that the prohibition chief of that state has gone to Washington after reinforcements.

A group of Chicago capitalists has bought a tract of land near Anniston for $250,000 and, it is understood, will open a sub-division. The public is reminded this happened in Alabama—not in Florida.

Out of Florida comes another story of mother love. A notorious bandit, held in jail here, fears the sheriff will kill him. He crouches in his jail, outside of which paces a starry-eyed, grey-haired woman, keeping vigil over her wayward son. Somebody should send a clipping of that story to Rev. Gipsy Smith.

The state congress of Parent-Teachers Association has just closed its convention in Cullman. The good the organization is accomplishing for the good of Alabama schools is immeasurable, but the organization deserves the support of every adult, not a few of them.

To those who oppose submission of a new bond issue, The Daily would like to inquire first of all whether or not they favor the construction of good roads? If the answer is in the affirmative, The Daily would further ask how they plan to build good roads without money?

Some of the football coaches now are complaining because of the weather changes which eastern and southern football teams meet within the course of the year. These experts point out that in California and other Pacific coast states, football teams are reasonably sure of a temperate day and a dry field for every game. Variety, it is said, is the spice of life. Thanks just the same, but The Daily prefers its own Alabama climate to that of California.

A ROMANCE OF COMMERCIALISM, A MODERN MIRACLE IN INDUSTRY

Careless persons who always see a land of promise somewhere "over there," and never realize the opportunities which might be offered them at home, will find a perfect object lesson in the story told in Friday morning's Birmingham Age-Herald, of the sale of the first lot in Birmingham for $75, a piece of property which today probably could not be obtained for one million dollars. And all of this happens within 54 years.

There still are people who declare that America does not offer opportunity, that the ordinary man does not have a chance to obtain fortune. Yet, in Birmingham, a district but 86 miles from our own, we find that one single investment, made by anyone, rich or not, years ago would make them wealthy today.

The average man probably does not look forward to making enough money to retire on, while he still is a comparative youngster. Most men, The Daily is inclined to believe, hope only that by their industry, their thrift and their vision they may accumulate sufficient store of worldly goods that their loved ones may never want, and that by the time old age is reached, the worker will have enough that he may lay aside his cares and bask in the sunset of life.

Certainly an investment in Birmingham real estate by a young man early in the present century would give him now all of the above enumerated worldly comforts. Truly a modern miracle of industry has been wrought in the Birmingham district.

EDITOR RUDD IS PEEVED BECAUSE A DEER IN NATIONAL PARK WAS SHOT

Editor S. E. Rudd, genial director of the editorial destinies of the Advertiser, at Moulton, finds himself at a loss to express his real opinion of a person or persons who last week shot and wounded a deer which had been placed in the government reservation in Lawrence county. Mr. Rudd declares in his paper:

There are times in our lives when we realize the inadequacy of our knowledge of the English language or the inadequacy of that part of the language which we are permitted to publish, to express our feelings, our thoughts, on certain questions. The above is the condition in which we find ourselves when we wish to express the opinion all good citizens hold of the man who last Saturday, shot with a shot gun, one of the deer recently placed in the National forest. Although the deer will probably live, the intent of the man who wielded the gun is still the same and a few years in the mines would be too light a punishment for him for he is too contemptible to be allowed to associate with people of ordinary intelligence.

After reading the above, any doubt which readers might have that Editor Rudd is peeved, is dissipated. There is no question that he is angry, and rightfully so. It does seem that people would recognize the aspirations of the state and government for the reservation and co-operate with them in making it a great national park and game preserve. Yet co-operation is sadly lacking sometimes.

There is one feature of the whole incident, however, which stands out strikingly. Mr. Rudd may find the English language inadequate to express his opinion in the matter, but if that is so, after reading again the concluding paragraph of his editorial The Daily humbly suggests that he lay in a supply of asbestos paper, in case he should ever be peeved again and have the good fortune to find just the words he desires to utilize to convey his full and complete opinion of the offender.

"WHILE THE CAT'S AWAY THE MICE WILL PLAY," EVEN IN ARKANSAS

People of Arkansas have been treated to a sensation, its chief executive has been embarrassed and its acting governor has had one fine time this week, for even in Arkansas the human tendency to "play while the cat's away" still is experienced.

Governor Terral, after having attended the governor's conference in Birmingham, now is back on Arkansas soil, after a fast trip home, to prevent the acting-governor from issuing any more pardons. Ever so often a case of this kind crops into the news of the day and is followed by the usual inquiries as to the laws of the various states should permit such occurrences.

The Daily, for one, still is wondering. Governor Terral, of whom The Daily knows nothing whatever, is the chief executive of the state of Arkansas. He was elected to that office by his fellow-citizens and he is responsible to them for the conduct of his administration.

When, in the course of his duties, he finds it important, if not necessary, to attend such a conference as the one in Birmingham, The Daily can see no reason for a law which permits his substitute to begin issuing pardons almost wholesale during the executive's absence.

The state senator who acted as governor of the state for a few days had little to do to fly in the face of a governor's well defined policies toward pardons and paroles and Governor Terral's complaint, from this angle, seems well justified.

A TRAIN OF THOUGHTS for the Sabbath and Other Days

BY J. E. BLAIR

At the state fair at Birmingham, last Saturday, it was all right, when the horses prepared to win—for their drivers to drive in different directions around the track. There was no danger of a conflict, as the horses moved so leisurely. But on the same day when the automobile drivers raced, in their warming up period, all autos perforce went into the same direction. They moved too rapidly for any chances to be taken. The world is moving entirely too fast today for its inhabitants to practice for the great race toward eternity, in any other formation than "all together, all forward, and all moving in unison!"

When the world war got to going very fast, with Foch at the head of the allies, submitted to a unified command. President Coolidge has just said that big business combinations were all right. Even the churches, the feet of whose leaders are all too slow in finding and keeping to the way of progress, are coming under unified command, to some extent. The Right Rev. John G. Murray, bishop-elect of the entire Episcopal church in America, has just called for unity among the Christian forces. And because the distinguished leader does not believe in church amalgamation, is no sign he is not ready to co-operate to the limit with other Christian leaders. The fact the Methodists at Huntsville and all over the South have refused "unification" with their Methodist brethren at the North, is no sign Methodism is not united. The Baptists are credited with great individuality, but when a clear-cut issue on progress or retreat is drawn, the Baptists will unite for better things. Not just because church people know the world is moving too fast for contrary winds to blow, will they unite, but also because all Christians believe the sentiment in "Onward Christian Soldiers," expressed in the words "Christ's cause must not MUST NOT suffer loss." Those who heard Bishop Murray sing those words as he marched with a great company of singers at the Birmingham church of the Advent, last Sunday, have reason to believe that Christian unity now is destined to grow until Christ's righteousness shall cover the earth as the waters cover the face of the deep.

Finally, to use a little scripture—"If the footmen cause thee to faint, how shalt thou contend with horses?" But also, if the world of horse flesh is too fast for you, how shall you contend with electrically driven machines? Answer—Be electrified with the Spirit of Christ, so to speak.

FRANCE can sympathize with that colored gentleman. She borrowed one hundred millions from Morgan and company to meet an exchange emergency drop. The French have been holding the cash to meet other dangers and meanwhile interest at the rate of seven per cent has been eating up the principal of which the French have only $77,750,000 left. We haven't got back the money that we lent Europe but at least it isn't costing us anything while we don't get it back.

AIR MAIL service between the United States and Cuba is promising at an early date. That will be welcome, bringing friendly countries closer together.

President Coolidge might inaugurate the air mail by writing to the president of Cuba, announcing a reduction in our sugar tariff.

PRICES of raw sugar in Cuba are now so low that it does not pay to produce the sugar. Unless something is done, to help our neighbors they will be obliged to cut down production, and Americans will have the pleasure of paying extravagant prices for sugar once more.

As a preliminary step American housewives should buy all the sugar that is within reason, storing an extra supply to help dispose of the present surplus.

FROM Leningrad comes news of a cure for epilepsy. The value of the cure vouched for by a really great scientist, Professor Pavloff. A serum made of antitoxin, manufactured from the frozen brain substance of dogs, produces a serum that prevents epileptic seizures.

That will horrify anti-vivisectionists, but it will mean if hopes are justified a great blessing to the human race, and the dogs suffer no pain.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE does not believe in interfering with other men's jobs so he allows distinguished incompetents to put Colonel Mitchell on trial merely for telling the truth.

It would be interesting to know the president's real opinion on this preposterous trial.

WHAT Colonel Mitchell said about the United States air fleet its incompetent management and general worthlessness was repeated in substance by every competent flier testifying at the recent aircraft investigation.

IT doesn't seem probable that every man in the United States force able to fly, knows less about flying than the deskbound gentleman that sent the Shenandoah to destruction. And what about the constitutional guarantee of free speech? Does that not apply to army officers?

IF YOU complained of too hot or too cold weather yesterday, find comfort in comparison. In Rapid City, S. Dak. the thermometer stood at 14 degrees below zero. In Illinois market gardeners are ruined by frozen celery and sweet potatoes. Ice has closed navigation on the upper Mississippi. We have all kinds of climate.

HOW FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE SPREADS

This Ailment Affects Both Man and Beast and Results from an Infection of a Broken Part of the Skin.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

ANIMALS have their diseases just as men do. While there are similarities between the ailments of man and beast, it is fortunate that not many are interchangeable.

But there are a few conditions which draw no line and respect no barriers between the species. One of these is the "foot and mouth disease."

This is what we commonly hear described as an "epizootic disorder." It prevails among animals. It attacks cattle, goats, sheep, hogs and other animals, as well as man.

Fortunately, it is not common among humans. But the foot and mouth disease is a contagious or infectious disease and, unless he is careful, the man who attends a sick animal may become inoculated.

As I shall describe to you, in this disease vesicles—blisters—form and the fluid of the vesicles carries the infecting agent. This is a virus which finds its way through broken places in the skin or mucous membranes.

It may even reach man from the milk of an infected cow. All the infectious diseases have a "period of incubation." This is the interval between the time of "catching" the disease and the appearance of the first symptoms.

In the foot and mouth disease the incubation period varies from two days to a week or ten days. The first sign after inoculation is a sensation of dryness and burning in the mouth, together with more or less fever.

The lining of the mouth becomes swollen and more and more congested. The saliva is increased materially. After a couple of days tiny blisters form on the lips, tongue and throat. These vesicles are filled with a clear fluid like water.

In two or three days after they appear the blisters break. Little red spots are left. These are really ulcers and very tender at that.

In bad attacks the feet and hands are involved. Blisters form on the skin, like the vesicles in the mouth. They act the same way, rupturing within a few days and forming sensitive ulcers.

The disease runs its mild course in a few days and disappears. Rarely is it a matter of great consequence. There have been a few serious epidemics, but ordinarily it amounts to little, disappearing in a week or ten days.

Mild washes of alum or chlorate of potash may be applied to the mouth eruptions. For the skin, zinc ointment or a soothing oil may be applied.

STEWARDSHIP THEME OF SPEAKER AT THE METHODIST CONFERENCE

(Associated Press)

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., Oct. 30.—There is a sense in which the Stewardship movement now sweeping the Methodist, Episcopal church, South is a campaign to end campaigns by making them unnecessary, was the opinion expressed by Dr. J. L. Crawford to the annual North Alabama conference of the denomination here today. Dr. Crawford represented the board of lay activities of the church which he is stewardship chairman. Dr. Crawford stressed Christian stewardship and the Wesley Brotherhood as the two outstanding items on the program of the lay activities board, and urged that these features of the laymen's work be emphasized during the ensuing conference year throughout this section of Methodism.

At the last session of the general board of lay activities convening at Lake Junaluska, N. C., it was decided to specialize in the fields of Christian stewardship and the promotion of the Wesley Brotherhood, Dr. Crawford reported.

"Christian Stewardship," said the speaker, "is one of the unutilized fields in the church. The bishops of our church two years ago adopted a resolution in which they declared that the time had come when a thorough program of indoctrination in the Bible principles of Christian stewardship is needed and urged this as one of the greatest services that laymen can render."

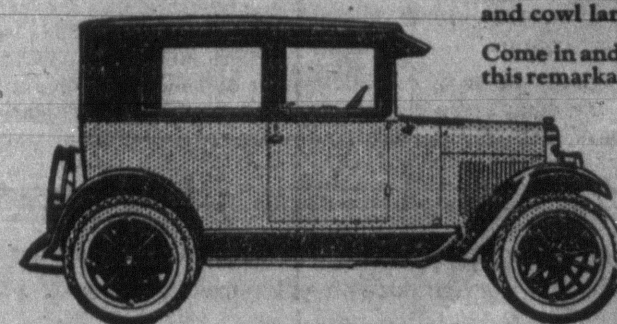

Dr. Crawford expressed the opinion that the adoption and application of the Bible principles of giving will solve all of the financial difficulties of the church.

"Our interest in Christian stewardship should not be prompted simply by the financial returns it will bring the church," he said. "It is more than a financial plan; it is God's plan for relating all life to the divine program it is Christianity in thought and action and to practice it is to be a world benefactor."

"The Wesley Brotherhood movement," said Dr. Crawford, "has been inaugurated by the board of lay activities to meet the needs of the adult men of the Methodist church for prayer, personal fellowship and definite personal work. The Sunday school, the Epworth League, the woman's missionary societies are providing for other church groups, but so far as the men are concerned there is no masculine church organization except the Wesley Brotherhood."

"The Brotherhood movement," said Dr. Crawford, "is a religious movement, having as its central aim a return of the spirit of brotherliness, sympathy and mutual helpfulness which prevailed in the early church."

FRANK MALCOLM MARTIN AND BEN MARTIN, Jr., HALLOWEEN HOSTS

The Halloween season, dear to the hearts of mischievous and fun-loving boys and girls, was ushered in on Friday afternoon and evening in a most fitting manner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Martin, when their sons were hosts at parties.

In the afternoon from 3 to 5 p. m., Master Frank Malcolm Martin was host to a large number of his little friends. Lots of entertainment was furnished them, the first thing of interest being a contest of pinning on the black cat's tail while blindfolded, in which Preuit Cartwright, received the prize, a box of candy tied with orange and black ribbon. A hunt for toy black kittens which pealed forth loud meows when found, was then staged and each little guest found one to keep. Games were played with Miss Pearson and Mrs. Walter Ezell assisting Mrs. Martin. The dining room was probably the most popular room of the home and when they were ushered in here a drawing for fortunes, which were written on the inside of a paper doughnut, was had. These came from a large pumpkin embedded in autumn leaves, and beside them Halloween witches at each place concealed lolly pops and hats. Orange ice cream was served with gingerbread men, at the conclusion of the afternoon.

His guests included Nell Dix, Baby Hildreth, Betty Giles, Margaret Ann Rogers, Nell Rainey, Jane Todd, Ann Frances Harris, Peggy Brown, Nancy Worth Jones, Marion and Katherine Boswell, Cullie Ruth Frazier, Mary Frances Jones, Betty McGee, Margaret and Sarah Warrick, Louise Davison, Lillian Dickerson, Doris Gardner, Annie Laurie Martin, Ben Coolidge, James Nelson Bloodworth, Jimmy Tillery, Noel Carpenter, Jack Hodges, Joe Quinn, Russell Speake, Jr., Paul Brown, Jr., Shannan Dickerson, Charles Green, Billy and G. W. Feigley, of Athens, Bruce Pettet, Jr., Luther Warrick, Thomas and William Davison, Taplin Hanson, Preuit Cartwright, and Earle Calvin, Jr.

Ben Martin, Jr., invited his friends to the evening hours and upon arrival they were greeted by a bony ghost who extended them an icy hand that broke off when touched. Halloween hats were presented to and worn by all of the guests.

In the apple biting contest, Miss Dorothy Holmes and Maurice Whaley won the prize and in the attempt to pin on Cinderella's gold slipper, Miss Hazel Hodges and Jack Mason were lucky recipients of the trophy offered. Several games were enjoyed, among them being cross questions and crooked answers that was played with candy hearts. A gypsy fortune teller stirred the pot of gold and drew out fortunes which the receiver had to read aloud. Elaborate refreshments were served including miniature ice pumpkins and individual cakes.

The following is a list of guests for the evening: Jack Mason, Edward Earle Dickerson, Ira Childs, Gus Hildreth, Albert Clopton, Howard and Cordelle Gillam, Jack Garnett, Samuel White, Paul Simrell, Russell Lynn, Maurice Whaley, Olin Fite, Lewis Nelson, Joe Guyton, Misses Hazel Hodges, Dolly Greer, Edith Fussell, Eleanor Bronough, Dolly Daniels, Louise Walker, Mary Vernon Dix, Dorothy Holmes, Mabel Ann Hanson, Julia Bingham, Jean Giles, Annie Robinson, Clara Mae and Georgia Anne Warrick.

The Martin home, the scene of these happy events, was prettily decorated with witches, Jack O Lanterns, black cats, skeletons and other seasonal decorations in profusion throughout the lower floor.

Wesley Holland, of the University of Alabama, is the week-end guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Casey Holland on the Trinity Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Stanford of Pontiac, Mich., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Young.

S. S. CLASS OFFICERS ELECTED

Delicious refreshments were enjoyed late in the afternoon.

A delicious dinner was served the old and new members present, including Misses Julia Lee Lynn, Ludie Moore Pointer, Mary Bethany Fitzgerald, Lucille Giles, Ellen Hildreth, Bernice Himes, Carolyn Fussell, Imogene Nungester, Emmie Frances Polhill, Mary Bronough and the hostess.

Later the four new members, Misses Bernice Himes, Carolyn Fussell, Ellen Hildreth and Lucille Giles were duly initiated. A lumber party was then enjoyed.

SEWING CIRCLE

PARTY AT DAY HOME

Mrs. W. H. Day gave a Halloween party on Friday evening complimenting her little son, Billy, at their home on Jackson street.

The evening was a delight to all of the guests present, among the things making it so were fortune telling, a fish pond out of which all caught Halloween favors and games, but the crowning event of all was the appearance of the old Halloween witch riding a broom. She led them in dances after which she told a number of entertaining stories.

Delectable and appropriate refreshments were served from the dining room table, which also held favors.

Those included in Master Billy's guest list were: Annie Louise and Frances Maubly, Tom Pettet, Jr., James Reeder Pettet, Frank Troup, James Ford, Wayland McGlathery, Frank Ford, Marie Atterson, Charles Wiggins, Amos Lovin, J. D. Hunter Jr., Miriam Hunter, Elizabeth Ann Hutson, E. M. Smith Jr., Mary Kate Troup, Eva Love Wyatt, Madge Sibley, Hugh Oliver Hunter, and Charles Harvey Day.

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: There is a young man living "not far from my place. I know he wants to be a acquaintance with me. I am puzzled about the procedure. RUMBLIES. DUBBLES. If the young man has already been introduced to you and you are now in the "bowing" stage of acquaintance, you can take the initiative. But when next you meet, instead of merely saying "Hello," exchange a few conversational remarks with the young man. Then, at a later date, you can invite him to call. And if he is really interested in you, he will not wait for further advances from your side.

Dear Annie Laurie:

I have been going with a boy for about five months and he says that he loves me dearly. He asks me for dates at night but never takes me anywhere. He says that he loves me better than anyone else but he drinks and will not stop though I wish that he would. I want him to take me out on Sunday but he refuses. He often passes the house in his car and waves to me. He doesn't go of interest to every man and woman in America

ON MONDAY, NOVEMBER 2nd

The most astonishing demonstration ever held will be given throughout the country by dealers in Victor products. It will begin at 9 a. m. and continue throughout the day.

It will introduce the most important contribution to music since the invention, 30 years ago, of the Victor Talking Machine.

Don't miss it! It will be one of the most amazing demonstrations you have ever heard. It will establish new standards of comparison and change your whole present viewpoint on the subject of music in the home.

The more critical your attitude toward music, the more astounded you will be. You will hear a range of tone, a perfection of tone, a richness and fullness in every note that will move you to the edge of your chair with an eagerness hitherto unknown.

A few people have heard this new instrument, and to say that they have been amazed, is but a meager description. Fritz Kreisler, Ernestine Schumann-Heink and John Philip Sousa have listened and marveled.

mann-Heink and John Philip Sousa have listened and marveled.

November 2nd has been set aside as Victor Day—as the day on which this new instrument will be presented to the public. All classes of music will be played and sung by Victor's own incomparable artists. Instrumental solos, Vocal selections, Choruses, Bands, Dance music, in sufficient variety to disclose the amazing versatility of the instrument.

No matter what you plan to do next Monday, do not miss this demonstration. You will never forget it.

Victor Day—November 2, 1925—is destined to be a day that will stand out in the history of music.

VICTOR MACHINE IS STYLED WONDERFUL

First Demonstration Proves Claims Of The Company

The first demonstration today of the new Victor Orthophonic Talking machine at the McGehee Furniture company showed clearly that the Victor company is speaking of actualities in the world of new talking machine inventions when they declare that the machine is a complete change in the mechanical reproduction of sound.

The Orthophonic Talking Machine is based upon a newly adapted principle known as "matched impedance" which has necessitated the complete redesigning of the machine. The electrical principle, which made possible the perfection of long distance telephonic communication was translated into mechanical terms by the Bell laboratories of the Western Electric company and placed at the disposal of the Victor company. It has resulted in an increase of range besides doubling the potential volume of the reproduction and the clearness with which the various instruments and voices may be distinguished.

Mr. McGehee explained that heretofore there have been three defects in the talking machine, limited range limited volume and failure to bring out clearly the tone color of the sounds recorded, that indefinable quality by which it is possible to distinguish between the various instruments or voices even when playing notes of the same pitch. "These difficulties," he continued, "have now been removed. The Orthophonic Talking Machine is capable of reproducing sounds as high as the highest note of the piccolo or as low as the deepest tone of the bass viol. It can reproduce these tones as soft as a whisper or as loud as a shout. The new machine will be demonstrated by the local furniture company on Victor Day, November 2 to the afternoon.

Falkville Wins From Y. M. C. A. In Last Thirty Seconds of Play Friday, Score 7-3

Some folks declare that the greatest thriller ever produced is given to the public by the movies, others like automobile races, some declare aeroplane stunts are the most efficient at hair-raising, but we maintain that the Falkville spirit rising in the last thirty seconds of play to triumph in a victory over the Y. M. C. A. places all Diamond Dick stories into insignificance. In the last thirty seconds of play Friday afternoon both the Falkville and Y. M. C. A. scored. Neither had been able to drive across the last white line up until that time. Pesty Johnson dropped back and booted a beautiful field goal for the Y. M. C. A. score and things looked up for the Y. M. C. A. Then Flivver Ford lead his charges back to the fray with the fleeting seconds counting heavily on both sides. Braswell kicked to Summerford, Summerford returned to mid-field, Ford heaved a 30 yard toss and Summerford galloped the last 20 yards with the oval snugly resting against his jersey. This all happened in the last thirty seconds of play. It is doubtful if such a situation has ever before been told in the annals of the gridiron.

All afternoon the Y. M. C. A. backed to at the Falkville line, backing the Blue team back into the shadows of their goal posts. Fumbles on a muddy field cost the Y. M. C. A. several chances to score. Then they would start their drive again only to lose on a fumble. A single first down was credited the Falkville folks during the course of the cold October afternoon. Braswell and McRee broke through the Falkville line time after time, racing over the field into the arms of the secondary defense. Braswell contributed his prettiest run of the year when he dashed around his own right end for 18 yards being stopped by Ford along the sidelines.

The Y. M. C. A. defense never budged when the Falkville clan was on the offensive. Once did the Falkville folks gain a first down, more often were they punting from behind their own goal line. Every break of the game went to the Falkville lads they recovered fumbles in their own territory, once they blocked a Y. M. C. A. pass and recovered. Yet it is to their credit that they have a fighting spirit; a team that does not know defeat when it stares them in the face, they came back in the last thirty seconds of play to victory and they are to be credited with a fine, clean, sportsmanlike game.

Outstanding in line play for Y. M. C. A. stood Ashwander, Roper, Clark and Kirby. Big Ford crashed into the center of the line time after time only to be stopped dead in his tracks without gain. Once or twice he broke through only to be met by McRee and Braswell who dumped him earthward.

The lineup and detail follows:

Lineup:
Y. M. C. A. Falkville
Grisham LE Norton
Byars LT Hodges
Roper LG Morris R.
Kirby C McGlathery
Clark RG Phillips
Ashwander RT Long G.
Yarbrough RE Patterson
Ellison QB Ford
Braswell LHB Robinson
Johnson RHB T. Morris
McRee FB H. Long
Substitutions: Summerford for T. Morris
Burleson, referee; Burdick Head Line-man.

Score:
Y. M. C. A. 0 0 3-3
Falkville 0 0 0 7-7

Ball was not in play in the center of the field. T. Long made 4 in the line. Ellison intercepted a Falkville toss on the Y. M. C. A. 35 yard strip. Braswell made 4 over the right side. McRee hit the left side for 4 yards. McRee made 10 yards and first down through the center. Braswell made 3 at the line on the first down and then circled his own right end for a dash along the sidelines for 18 yards. Ford stopped him and first down. McRee drove 3 yards through center. A Y pass was intercepted by Norton who rushed Braswell, blocked the toss and recovered. Falkville's ball on their own 35 yard line. Ford got 4. Braswell intercepted a Falkville pass on the Y 35 yard line, as the half ended. Score Y 0, Falkville 0.

Third Quarter
Falkville kicked off to Johnson who raced back to the 40 yard line. Johnson fumbled on the first play but recovered. McRee failed at the line. Braswell kicked to Ford who was downed on Falkville's 28 yard line. Ford made 2 yards at left end. T. Long fumbled and recovered for no gain. Ford was stopped at the center of the line and Morris kicked to Braswell who returned 2 yards. Albany's ball on their own 35 yard line. Braswell made 8 in an off tackle dash. McRee was stopped. Braswell made 3 and a first down. McRee broke through center for 10 yards, the secondary defense finally pulling him down. Braswell made 1, McRee was stopped at the line then made 3 on the next down. McRee fumbled and it was Falkville's ball on their own 10 yard line. Falkville kicked out to the center of the field. Braswell broke through the line for 10 yards and a first down, as the third quarter ended. Y. M. C. A. 0, Falkville 0.

Fourth Quarter
The ball was on Falkville's 20 yard line. Two plays netted five yards then Yarbrough made it first down on a sneak through the line. Yarbrough was caught at left end for no gain. Braswell made 3, Johnson's attempt at a field goal went wide and Falkville took the ball on their own 1 yard line. Falkville punted out to Johnson who was downed on Falkville's 38 yard line. A pass failed, a pass from Ellison to McRee was good for 10 yards and the ball rested on Falkville's 28 yard line. Braswell dove 4 yards into the line and was then stopped for a short loss. A pass Ellison to Grisham was good for 18 yards and first down. McRee fumbled and Falkville recovered on their own 4 yard line. Ford made 1 yard. Ford was halted again in the center of the line. Grisham tore through and blocked the Falkville punt. Grisham recovered on Falkville's 4 yard line. Braswell made 2. Johnson fell back and kicked a beautiful field goal. Score Y. M. C. A. 3, Falkville 0.

Braswell kicked to Summerford who returned to the center of the field. A pass Ford to Summerford was good for 20 yards. Summerford dashed the remaining 20 yards across the Y. M. C. A. goal line. Falkville kicked goal as the whistle blew. Score Y. M. C. A. 3, Falkville 7.

ALABAMA TEAMS GET INTO ACTION

Two Conference Clans Will Suffer Blight of Defeat Today

(Associated Press)
BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 31—Two major engagements on the gridiron occupy the attention of Alabama football fans today. Down at Tuscaloosa the Crimson Tide, conqueror of Georgia Tech meets Mississippi A. & M. as a part of the home coming day celebration. Over at Montgomery, Morey's Auburn Tigers will attempt a comeback against Tulane.

Today's card is also featured by another game worth notice. The Howard Bulldog, upsetter of dope, battles the Mississippi Choctaws on the latter's own reservation. Despite the win over Tech last Saturday, Alabama is not facing the A. & M. game with convictions of an easy victory. It is believed in the Crimson camp that the Tide will roll on but coaches say that the squad is going to fight every inch of the way.

The Tulane Greenies who subdued Northwestern in the face of odds seemed the favorites in today's tilt with Auburn. The Tiger is crippled by the loss of Finch and Ollinger, latest reports from the Plains indicate and are entering the game with blighted hopes. The Moreytes will fight though, they will tell you, at Auburn.

The Howard-Mississippi go at Clinton seems a tossup although the local Bulldog elated their supporters last Saturday by holding the Plainsmen of Auburn to a one point win care.

Today's games will chalk up a defeat for at least two conference teams.

ALBANY HIGH HANDS TUSCUMBIA DEFEAT

Drake Races 45 Yards For Only Score Of The Afternoon

Albany high school reversed things yesterday afternoon against the heavier Tuscumbia entrant for gridiron honor by virtue of brilliant defensive play and a 45 yard dash off left tackle in the third quarter by Drake local high halfback. The attempt at point after touchdown failed.

According to the story of the game the local lads drove Tuscumbia from one end of the field to the other during the first three quarters, completely outplaying their bulky opponents and carrying the oval time and again within the shadow of the Tri-City goal posts.

Perie's coolness and ability in calling signals was never more clearly demonstrated than on Friday when he directed the play of the first three quarters, climaxed by the touchdown jaunt by Drake which marked the margin of victory. Albany turned to the defensive in the last quarter when they rolled back three offensives of the Tuscumbia team which carried them to within 10 yards of the Albany line on each occasion.

In line play Thompson, Hurst and Mitchell stood out while the Papenburg brothers at the ends thwarted every attempt of the Tuscumbia eleven at racing around the flanks. Spencer was the luminary for the local eleven in both offensive and defensive play until he was removed from the game in the third quarter with a broken leg. Thombs, recent acquisition to the Albany backfield featured his afternoon's work with a 35 yard drive around end.

Grid Warrior Rests Well at Home Today

Bruce Spencer, Albany high school grid battler who sustained a broken leg in the Albany High-Tuscumbia game of Friday is resting well at his home today. The injury was very painful and will keep Spencer out of the game the remainder of the season.

Speaking of the regrettable accident today, Coach Alford of Albany high stated that Spencer had more nerve on and off the field than any man he has ever seen. Spencer was hurt in the third quarter of the game at Tuscumbia when he reached over to pick up a fumble. He was tackled in his relaxed position. H. L. Spencer, father of the injured youth, accompanied by B. A. Turner went to the Tri-Cities immediately following the news of the accident.

DECATUR HIGH IS UNABLE HALT ARAB

Seven Decatur Men Are Out Of The Friday Game

Decatur high school met a crushing defeat Friday afternoon at Arab Ala., when the Arab team ran roughshod to victory, chalking up a 44-0 win. Arab resorted to the aerial route alone and scored all but two of her touchdowns through the air. Two of the touchdowns were the result of blocked Decatur punts.

The Decatur team fought valiantly to stave off the defeat, but minus seven regulars there was little chance for either offensive or defensive display of power. The Decatur line was crippled with the loss of a regular center, both ends were held out of the tilt owing to injuries, a backfield man was shifted into the center position and West at fullback called the Decatur signals. Coach Grimes said today that Decatur was forced to punt every time they were in possession of the ball with two backfield men out of the game and Namie unable to carry the oval on line drives. Decatur had a single chance to score when a long pass West to Namie placed the ball in scoring distance. Arab held and Lewis attempt at a drop kick failed. Arab was credited with having won a clean cut victory. Decatur's poor condition being given as the cause for the top heavy score.

Morgan County Hi Loses To Jasper Hi

Morgan County high failed to stop the winning streak of the Vikings from Jasper Friday afternoon, and the Walker county eleven added another medal to their trophy collection by a score of 13-0. The game was played under the most adverse weather conditions the day being one of the coldest of the year and the field in a sloppy condition. Both teams played good football throughout.

The True Cost of Printing

Do you consider printing as merely an expense necessary to the operation of your business? Or do you treat it as a means of building business?

Poor printing is an expense, not only in the money it costs, but in its undesirable reflection on your business.

Good printing costs nothing—it offsets its own cost and makes money for you.

Whether the printing be a direct appeal for business such as a circular or other form of direct advertising, or a statement or other office form, quality counts in the reckoning of its cost.

We look upon printing as something which should absorb its own cost and make a profit for its user. And we produce printing that does.
